London Cor. N. Y. Times.

From the Richmond Enquirer. Facts vs. Theories-Tariffs of 1842 and 1846. The following is the closing paragraph of a long article upon the Tariff of 1846, that appeared in the Richmond Times, of the 11th inst. "If the planter receives but thirty dollars a bale for cotton, for which he ought to receive fifty-if a reduction in the price of cotton infliets upon this country a loss in a single year of fifty millions of dollars, we need but say, (as we might,) "thanks to the policy of 1846,"-but we ask our opponents to account to the planter's satisfaction for the utter failure of all their predictions. And the enquiry might be extended to other productions: sugar, tobacco and wheat, with a similar result. All have suffered under the blow inflicted by the administration of Mr. Polk and Mr. Walker upon the trade and production of the country, by which the home demand has been ruinously contracted, while planters and farmers must seek nearly all their exchanges in the diminished and diminishing markets of England." Now, we will "account to the Planter," and we feel satisfied that we shall make good the predictions of free traders-at all events, we are willing to leave it to the planters, to say whether the tariff shall remain as it is, or whether we are to have more spezial legislation upon the subject. The following official tables we extract from a powerful speech recently delivered in Congress, by Mr. Rantoul, of Massachusetts. While we reprobate the course of this gentleman, in his fanatical desertion to the free soil interest, we have a right to gather truth wherever we find it; and the demonstration below, by official figures, is a conclusive refutation of the complaints of the protectionists on an important point connected with tariff operations:

"You will find that your exports of produce of all sorts brought, under the tariff of '42, about $125,-000.000 less than the same articles would have amounted to if sold at the prices which prevailed for four years previous to '42. There is a state of things which agricultural interests would not desire during those four years. How has it been since '46? There has been a general rise of about the same amount; that is to say, about 30,000,000 a year. The articles exported since 1846 down to the present time, if ther had been sold at the average prices that prevailed from '42 to '47, would have brought nearly $150,000.000 less than they have brought-a difference of $30,000,000 a year as before. Under the tariff of '42. our exports sold for $30.000.000 a year less than the same qualities had sold for before; and under the tariff of '46. and since that time, they have brought $30.000,000 a year more than the same quantities had brought before.

The Old Green Lanc .- BY ELIZA COOK. Twas the very merry summer time That garland hills and dells,

And the south wind rung a fairy clime Upon the foxglove bells;

The cuckoo stood on the lady-birch
To bid her last good bye—
The lark sprung o'er the village church,
And whistled to the sky,
And we had come from the harvest sheaves,

A blithe and tawny train, And tracked our path with poppy leaves Along the old green lane. 'Twas a pleasant way on a sunny day, And we were a happy set, As we idly bent where the streamlet went To get our fingers wet ;

With the dog-rose here, and the orchis there, And the woodbine twining through; With the broad trees meeting everywhere, And the grass still damp with dew. Ah! we all forgot in that blissful spot The nz nes of care and pain,

As we lay on the bank by the shepherd's cot, To rest in the old green lane.

Oh! days gone by! I can but sigh As I think of that rich hour, When my heart in its glee but seemed to be Another woodside flower: For though the trees be still as fair,

And the wild bloom still as gay-Though the south wind sends as sweet an air, And the heaven as bright a day; Yet the merry set are far and wide, And never shall meet again-

We shall never ramble side by side Along that old green lane.

Distilted and Malt Liquors. The Washington Telegraph has a table showing the production of intoxicating liquors in the United States and Territories. The details are taken from the recent Census Returns. The Telegraph says that the table does not reveal the quantities of wines and liquors consumed in the United States annually, but simply the quantities produced, and the direction given to a capital of eight and a third millions of dolars, and in a direct way to the labor of five and a half thousands of men, leaving out of view the capital and labor expended in producing the grain. &c., and in the subsequent treatment, sale, &c., of the pre-

THE FLAX MOVEMENTS IN IRELAND. - The Belfast papers of a late date report, at great length, the proceedings at the annual meeting of the Royal Society for the promotion and improvement of the growth of land is about double what it was when the Society 500,000. In place of 16,000 tons of flax, which was the extent of consumption in 1841, 32,000 tons are now required by the Irish trade. The entire consumptions of the United Kingdom would, at present, require 500,000 acres of flax annually, and it is probables, of which the trade took 53,810 bales, exporters 4,230, and speculators 19,500 bales. The sales on the 5th were gressively increasing at a pretty rapid rate.
